

About us:

Kiddy Y International is an entrepreneurial center that trains kids, youths and adults with the relevant skills that are necessary for the present and future world of work. If poverty, unemployment and unproductivity ought to be addressed in Africa, it will begin by bridging the skills gap. According to MC Kinsey reports on current trends, the global economy could face a potential surplus of 90million low skilled workers and a shortage of 40 million high skilled workers in the nearest future. The global skills gap cannot be effectively narrowed without the participation of kids and youths. We are here to help kids and youths do what they love, live out their passions and be their most authentic selves. Our trainings will put our students on a path towards success in today's high demand career fields. Have in mind that after our students complete our trainings they are declared wanted by their desired future.
